COOLIDGE WILL LAUNCH G.O.P. FIGHT TONIGHT

Republican Leaders From All Parts of Nation Assemble in Washington to Hear Notification Address.

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Thursday, Aug. 14.—Ready to launch the national campaign, Republican leaders from every section of the nation are here to hear President Coolidge outline his views on the campaign issues in a speech accepting the nomination of the party as presidential candidate. Mr. Coolidge will be notified formally of his nomination in the Memorial Continental Hall tonight, and his exposition of the principles on which he seeks election will set in motion the campaign plans to take in most parts of the country. Many of the visitors called at the White House to leave their respects with Secretary Slomp during the morning, prior to a noon banquet luncheon and informal reception arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge for the representatives of the convention which nominated him, but the President, because of the work on his desk and an engagement to test his voice and pose for pictures in the auditorium where he will speak, was unable to receive many of them personally until a later hour.

Arrangements Completed. Under the direction of William M. Butler, chairman of the national committee, and James B. Reynolds of Washington, in charge of the plans for the ceremonies, all arrangements had been completed for the exercises to start at 8 o'clock tonight eastern standard time. Mr. Butler will preside and Frank W. Mondell, permanent chairman of the national convention, will notify Mr. Coolidge of his nomination. Mr. Coolidge's acceptance and a prayer by the Rev. J. Noble Erick, pastor of the First Congregational Church here, of which the President is a member, will conclude the program.

Long distance telephones will carry the speaker's voice to radio broadcasting stations in every section east of the Rocky Mountains and national committees estimates that an audience of 25,000,000 will be enabled.

$150,000 Is Loss In Mysterious Warehouse Fire

Special to The Times. YAKIMA, Thursday, Aug. 14.—Investigation of a mysterious fire which last night destroyed the warehouse of the Pacific Fruit Company here with a loss of $150,000 was under way today by the police. That the blaze was set for revenge by a man who was elected from the plant Tuesday night by a watchman was one theory on which the police were working. Besides the fruit company, whose warehouse was filled with peaches and other soft fruits, losses were suffered by the Splener Fruit Corporation, the Commercial Printing Company and Ira Cleveland, other tenants of the building. The fire was discovered shortly before 11 o'clock and within half an hour the structure was a wreck, despite the desperate effort of the fire department to check the flames. All the firms carried considerable insurance. The police have been informed that the night watchman had a fight Tuesday night with an intruder who, upon being driven from the warehouse, threatened to return and "do it up."

BOURBONS DRIFT TO COOLIDGE IN FEAR OF BRYAN

La Follette's Possibility to Poll Popular Vote in Favor of Third Party Threatens Democrats, Says Jermaine.

Mr. Jermaine's Dispatch. Capital City Bureau, The Seattle Times, 905-6 Colorado Building. WASHINGTON, Thursday, Aug. 14.—With the formal notice to Mr. Coolidge that he is the Republican nominee for the presidency, the campaign of 1924 may be said to be starting. The preliminaries are now nearly all over. Mr. Davis had his notification on Monday. Mr. Coolidge will receive his tonight. Mr. La Follette, after favoring a formal notification for a time, changed his mind. He assumes that the country knows about what took place at Cleveland on July 4 and 5, and does not need to be told again that he is to make the presidential race. There has been a building up of political interest, with this week's official ceremonies as the objectives, and now that interest will die down to a certain degree, to revive again in September when the regular campaign programs will be perfected by both of the major parties. Then comes the task of filling campaign treasuries, mapping out speaking itineraries and greasing the wheels for the rapid spins that September and October will show.

Year Divided in Four. A presidential year divides itself into four parts. First comes the selection of delegates to the national conventions, beginning in March and lasting for two or three months. Then come the nominating conventions, which hold the boards for several weeks, to determine whether their results have been anticipated or not. When one or the other of the conventions is as important and as interesting as that of the Democrats this year, the attention of the entire country is attracted, to the exclusion of all other things. The first period of activity merges into the second. The delegates are no sooner all selected than the conventions get ready to meet. There is a brief breathing spell, however, before the conventions and the formal notification of the candidates, and between these notifications and the beginning of the campaign in September. The year as a whole, however, is filled to the brim with national politics, and business no doubt has some justification for its complaint that when the people are thinking about presidential situations they ignore nearly everything else.

Demand for Fewer Elections. Trade usually falls off to some extent, and business men are always glad when a presidential year is over. Business sentiment, I believe, is quite untroubled by the prospect that has been made time after time, and that ultimately will probably be agreed to, that the presidential term be six years instead of four, the congressional term, for House members, three years instead of two, and that a President be made ineligible for reelection. The tendency for a good many years has been to multiply elections of various kinds, and that helps explain why so few people go to the polls. That tendency was greatly emphasized by the direct primary, which, in all the even-numbered years, opens the polls twice as often as they had been opened before. The most intelligent thought of the country is in favor of fewer elections, and so it happens that business men, in their demand for a lengthening of the term, are really demanding a lengthening of the term.

KIDM'GOY HELD ON CHARGE OF SLAYING WOMAN

By Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Thursday, Aug. 14.—Norman Selby, who as Kid McCoy won renown in the prize ring more than a quarter of a century ago, sat in a jail cell here today facing the most desperate battle of his career—a fight to free himself of the charge of murdering a woman. Friends indicated he would plead insanity. The woman, Mrs. Mors, divorced wife of a wealthy antique dealer, was found dead here yesterday in her apartment. Nearby was an automatic pistol and a note signed by McCoy bequeathing all his worldly possessions to his mother. When McCoy was arrested several hours later, after terrorizing employees and patrons of two fashionable shops and shooting and slightly wounding three persons, he was stubbornly silent for a time, but finally talked freely. Mrs. Mors killed herself, he said; the shock and grief filled him with an insane rage to kill her husband, "who drove her to it." To kill all those who stood in his way, and finally to kill himself. "I was going to kill myself," he said, explaining the note found in the apartment, "but—I forgot." Police believe portions of McCoy's story, but declare that his suicide defense has already received its knock-out blow from the Kid's own sister.

Lumber Figures Near Record Rail Delivery Orders Heavy

ORDERS for rail delivery were the largest in months and closely approached the high record for the year, according to figures contained in the weekly trade review of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association covering the week ending August 9. The reviews, sent out today, indicate an increasing demand for lumber as the fall approaches and a wide determination on the part of the lumber manufacturers to avoid another period of disastrous overproduction. Due to this policy and to marked improvement in the rail trade that has been brought about by big crops and high grain prices in the farming states east of the Rockies, both lumber and shingle prices are strong and several advances have been made within the last week, according to lumber buyers and brokers, who report mills unwilling to book orders for future delivery on present market quotations. The big increase in rail orders for the week covered by the West Coast Association's review was due in large part, it was said today, to extensive buying of lumber by Western railroads, including the Great Northern, Burlington and Southern Pacific. But this buying in itself reflects new confidence in the future of the agricultural states which these railroads serve. The review is based on reports from 113 association mills which cut a total of 83,427,878 feet of lumber, sold 112,203,339 feet and shipped 65,310,359 feet. Sales exceeded production by 27 per cent indicating a condition in strong contrast with that existing during the late spring and summer when production, week in and week out, exceeded sales by 10 per cent or more.

RUHR DEADLOCK IS IMPERILING DAWES PROGRAM

Delegates at London Conference Hope and Expect American or British Intervention Will Save Plan. By Associated Press. LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 14.—The deadlock between the French and the Germans on the question of the time limit for the military evacuation of the Ruhr is imperiling the success of the international conference, it was indicated at a hurried meeting of the French, Belgian and German plenipotentiaries at Downing Street early this morning had failed to produce tangible results. Delegates to the conference hope and expect, however, that American or British intervention will save the program, which the Allies have agreed upon for instituting the Dawes reparation plan. On his return to his hotel after the morning conference, Herriot said: "The Allies are with us and we are in complete control of the situation." At 2:15 o'clock Chancellor Marx visited Herriot at the latter's hotel. It was intimated that the German chief delegate might have brought with him the German answer on the all-important Ruhr question. Americans Confer. After the meeting between Premier Herriot, Premier Thunberg of Belgium and Chancellor Marx, which lasted about twenty minutes, American Ambassador Frank B. Kellogg and American Representative James A. Logan, Jr., rushed to the American embassy and joined Oswald D. Young and the other American experts on the Dawes plan to consider what achieving certain materials.

TWO PLANES MAY GET OFF TOMORROW

Word From Cruiser Off Greenland Land Causes Postponement of Hazardous Trip Until Storm Subsides.

By Associated Press. REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Thursday, Aug. 14.—The American around-the-world flyers will leave on their hazardous flight from Iceland to the east coast of Greenland tomorrow, if weather permits. The departure of the United States cruiser Richmond, flagship of Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, to take up its station off the Iceland coast, which had been planned for 8 o'clock last evening, was postponed until today on receipt of news from the cruiser Raleigh, off the Greenland coast, that the barometer was falling and that a gale was blowing. The Richmond will leave at 11 o'clock this morning to take up her position 270 miles off the coast of Iceland to await the passing of the flyers. The destroyers Reid and Billingsley will occupy stations near Iceland. Lieut. Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. Erik Nelson had intended to hop off today for Angmagssalik, Greenland, 500 miles away, had weather conditions been propitious over the Danish Straits. The American destroyers Reid and Billingsley left Reykjavik yesterday for their stations along the coast of the flyers toward Greenland. The cruiser Raleigh is awaiting the arrival of the flyers at Angmagssalik. The plane of Lieutenant Nelson, which had been on shore for several days for an overhauling, was put back in the water yesterday. The machine is said to be in perfect condition.

STARWICH AND POSSE FRUSTRATE BOLD GANG

Little King County Town Is Scene of Battle to Death When Sheriff's Men Attack Desperadoes.

DRAMATICALLY interrupting an attempted daylight hold-up of the Snoqualmie State Bank at Carnation, formerly known as Tolt, at 2:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Sheriff Matt Starwich and six deputies shot and killed D. C. Malone, alias A. J. Brown, leader of the bandit band, and captured the driver of their automobile, Ted Lashe, who accompanied Malone into the bank, was shot by the leader of the bandit band during the battle between Malone and the deputies when Malone apparently suspected him of having given away the hold-up plans to officers. Lashe died last night at the Snoqualmie Falls Hospital. Deputy Sheriff Virgil Murphy, former University of Washington crew man, was struck in the left leg by a bullet fired by one of the deputies, but was not seriously wounded. Jack Benson, driver of the machine, was captured in the machine outside the bank while the battle between Malone and the deputies was in progress. Malone was taken to the hospital where he was held until he was able to give information that the bank was to be held up and was lying in wait with his deputies when the bandit driver, Lashe, one of the bandits, had betrayed his companions and then had participated in the robbery under instruction from the officers. Malone believed to have suspected Lashe, for when he saw that he had been hopelessly betrayed, he shot Lashe down by a bullet from his revolver. Malone's revolver was captured by the deputies' revolver.

During the duel between Malone and the deputies Lashe stood near the door of the bank with his pistol broken down by a bullet from the fire of his partner to return the fire of the deputies, and as he fell, a bullet from Sheriff Starwich struck Tom Morgan's pistol. Malone fired on Lashe, wounding him. According to Starwich, Malone received $50 from him. At the time Malone boasted that it was an easy job and that nothing ever was found of membership in the Industrial Workers of the World. Little is known of Malone's antecedents. His fingerprints were taken at the morgue and will be made to trace his record. Lashe's parents live in Idaho, bench the driver, denied knowledge of the hold-up. He said he merely had been hired as a driver by Malone and Lashe. The bank building's windows were broken and its walls and furnishings damaged by the numerous shots fired.

Wordy War at Franks Hearing

Recess Stops Angry Argument. By Associated Press. CHICAGO, Thursday, Aug. 14.—Clarence S. Darrow, counsel for the defense, and Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, got into an angry argument at the afternoon session of the Franks hearing, which was interrupted only when Judge John R. Caverly directed a five-minute recess. Mr. Darrow was cross-examining Dr. Archibald Church of Chicago, the state's second alienist, when he asked if the doctor had gone to Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, Frank's slayers, for any other purpose than as an alienist for the state, to give testimony on which to hang them. His lips quivering, his ruddy countenance redder than ever, and shaking his finger at Mr. Darrow, the doctor managed to get out: "Now, Mr. Darrow, you know that was not true" before Mr. Crowe was on his feet with a loud objection. "Let him answer," Mr. Crowe shouted as Mr. Darrow withdrew his question with an apology, and Judge Caverly ordered it erased. "He asked a question and saw the answer was going to hurt him," Mr. Crowe said. "You know I don't play tricks," hurred back Mr. Darrow. "I inadvertently used the word."

TWO BANDITS DEAD IN ATTEMPTED BANK HOLDUP

by the officers and Malone. Bank officials did not disclose the amount of money in the bank, but officers said they had been told the vaults held more than $25,000.
Bench is being held in the county jail without bail. After the pistol battle, deputies in Seattle arrested

William Sant at 1817 13th Ave. on suspicion that he knew of the robber's plans. He also is held without bail.
Miss Isadore Hall, vice president of the bank, although she knew of the intended hold-up, stood at the cashier's cage when the bandits entered, submitted to being held up and then quietly dodged out of range into the vault when the bullets whistled too close.
Sheriff Starwich said that the wounding of Deputy Virgil Murphy was unavoidable. The bandit Malone did not follow the course in the bank that the officers believed he would, and as a result for a brief moment Murphy came within the range of another deputy's fire and was wounded.

Sheriff Sure of His "Tip"
So confident was Sheriff Starwich that his "tip" on the hold-up was authentic, that he invited all newspaper reporters and photographers attached to the Court House to go to the bank, warning them to remain in hiding until the bandits were caught. Starwich believed the bandits would be surprised and captured without the battle which resulted.
Here is what happened:
When he arrived from his home in Auburn, early yesterday morning, Starwich gathered together the six deputies assigned to the case, made a final check-up on the source of the tip and then all the sawed-off shotguns and revolvers in the office were examined. The best were selected after much testing.
"Hope we get 'em." "Till shoot the first guy in that gang that makes a crack." "This is real stuff, the war all over again." "Lemme at 'em," were some of the confident comments of the deputies as they checked the mechanism of the shotguns and clicked the pistols. "Reminds me of old times at Ravenedale," said Starwich, who for many years was a deputy in the small coal mining town, once frequented by roughs and toughs. Just before 9:30 o'clock when the party left for Carnation. Starwich and the six deputies went to a barber shop and were shaved.

Starwich Gets Shaved.
"Might as well look nice in case we get 'bumped off,'" said Starwich. "Yep, if she goes through we'll have our pictures taken," said Deputy Herb Beebe.
A little more than an hour after they left Seattle, the deputies slowed up at the outskirts of Carnation. One by one they sauntered into the quiet town and so careful were their moves that even residents of the town sitting on the hotel porch did not suspect anything unusual. Some of the deputies carried bags, other small bundles and Deputy Ray Murphy had a large chunk of cheese wrapped in oil paper. Because he would have been readily recognized, Starwich slipped into Carnation through the back streets and informed the mayor, marshal and telephone operator of the expected hold-up.

TWO SLAIN IN HOLD-UP

SHERIFF FRUSTRATES CARNATION BANK ROBBERY.

Leader of Bandits Is Shot to Death as He Fatally Wounds His Pal.

Tom Morgan and Beebe to the bank was hardly noticed. They appeared like farmers just in to deposit cash from the sale of a cow or to draw out enough ready cash to pay the grocery and feed bill. Once inside they told Miss Hall of the hold-up plan. She was amazed. The officers instructed Miss Ethel Bagwell, cashier, not to return to the bank for lunch and Miss Hall was asked to play the part of cashier during the hold-up.

Stage Is Set for Attack.

Meanwhile, Starwich and Deputies Frank Anderson, Virgil Murphy and Ed Fitzgerald had made their way to a small shed directly across the street from the bank. The front door of the shed was propped open an inch to allow a bird's-eye view of the street. To pass the time away, Virgil Murphy whittled a small lookout hole in the shed wall. Then the long wait commenced.

Inside the bank, Deputies Morgan, Beebe and Ray Murphy sat on chairs in a rear room and chatted, alert for the first sight of the bandits. The men in the shed were on their toes, too, and every passing car was subjected to a close scrutiny. An hour passed, the attention of the officers flagged.

Peter D'rieho, proprietor of a nearby pool hall, walked slowly past the shed on his way down the street. Little suspecting that the deputies, whom he knew, were inside the shed.

Across the street, beside the bank, the shadows on the windows of Jesse Simmons' law office were drawn, for he was in Seattle, trying a lawsuit.

The first excitement of the wait had died down when several cars ambled down the street, cropping at the grass by the sidewalk until stirred on their way by their keeper.

Cows in Danger Zone.

"There'll be some good beefsteaks in this town tonight if those cows don't get out of the way pretty soon," said Starwich, fingering a revolver.

Noon came and no bandits. The officers lunched and returned to their vigil. A freight train puffing in the valley, a whistle blew on a nearby shop, automobiles full of tourists from many states passed down the street. Soon it was 2 o'clock.

From the south came a car. Three men were in it. It was driven slowly past the bank, watched carefully by Starwich and the deputies, anxiously ready for the climax of their wait. A few moments later a man in a gray cap walked to the bank from the north.

"It's Malone, the bandit," said Fitzgerald, watching from the shed. Malone repressed the bank on his way north.

In a moment, the automobile—the one that had just passed—drove up to the bank. Two men jumped out and ran into the bank. One stayed at the wheel of the car, the engine filling. Starwich lead the three deputies in the shed in a race across the street.

"Stick 'em up," said Starwich to the driver.

Driver Felled by Blow. The driver stuttered that he didn't know anything. His hands didn't go up. Starwich grabbed him by the shoulder, hauled him out of the car and felled him with a blow on the jaw.

Meanwhile inside the bank Miss Hall had seen the bandits drive up and had whispered "Here they come," to the deputies in the rear room.

Lashe had been the first to enter the bank. He stood in the lobby, trained his revolver on Miss Hall and said, "Stick 'em up," just before Starwich was hauled up the driver. She threw up her hands.

Monkey-like, Malone seized a top rung over an open window on the counter and swung himself behind the counter.

Malone Seizes Trap.

Then he heard Starwich's command to the driver. He sensed a trap. He turned to run to the vault. Three deputies emerged from the rear room. Malone fired, Deputy Tom Morgan answered first, then the others. The rattle of revolver fire followed. Bullets splattered on chairs and counters. Windows crashed. Smoke filled the room. Miss Hall slipped into the vault, closed the door nearly shut but retained a view of the battle.

Lashe meanwhile in the lobby had trained his pistol on the deputies, but had not fired. Malone noticed this failure of his partner to respond. Then a bullet from Morgan's pistol struck the bandit leader in the side, near the heart. Still firing, he reeled, staggered backward, and as he fell he fired on Lashe and Lashe too fell. Wounded a dozen times, Malone kept up his fire on the deputies. Morgan, Beebe and Ray Murphy retreated to the back room to reload. Just then Fitzgerald, who had been firing at Malone from the front door, also ran out of ammunition. Malone turned his pistol on Fitzgerald. But he never fired that last shot.

Bandit Fights to End.

From the doorway of the bank, Deputy Anderson trained his shotgun on Malone, fired through the plate glass window and mortally

Look Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Happy Results

Newcastle, Pa.—"I was all run-down and everybody thought I was going into a de-cline. I had been ailing for a year with pains in my right side so that I could hardly stand on my feet. When I walked I felt as if something was falling. I was not able to do any work and had a nervous most of the time. I spoke to me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I gave it a fair trial. Some women think one bottle should cure them, but I did not stop at that. I took more and got better and am able ever since to do my own housework. There was a time, when I would complain of not feeling well, that my husband would say, 'Go to the doctor.' But now he will tell me to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's, and it has always helped me. I have had druggists tell me that they had something better, but they don't tell me that now, for I take no other. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound now for five years. Any woman who says she has helped me, will be glad to tell her how it helped me."—Mrs. MABEL LIST SHERBURN, 315 Newell Ave., Newcastle, Pa.

The Super-Ship H.F. Alexander

largest, fastest and most luxurious coastwise vessel in the world!

A metropolitan hotel afloat—that's the "H.F. Alexander."

The above picture is an indication of the roomy comfort and the luxurious atmosphere that prevail throughout this super-ship. Four delightful public rooms—note their liberal dimensions: Observation Room, 36 by 32 feet; Music Room, 42 by 32 feet; Writing Room, 20 by 57 feet; Smoking Room, 49 by 32 feet. In these you will find not the conventional steamship saloon, but something decidedly out of the ordinary—open fireplaces, baby grand pianos, and furnishings comparable with Seattle's finest hostilities.

Then, too, there are the Glass-enclosed Promenades, the Palm Garden Veranda, the Children's Playroom and a Colonial Dining Saloon that's a revelation in dining rooms afloat!

The passenger accommodations range from double or twin-bed suites with private connecting bath to comfortable double-decked bed staterooms, with or without bath, all most attractively furnished and completely equipped—even to a private telephone in every room.

Afternoon and evening dancing, music at meals, afternoon tea service—these are other features that make the trip a continual pleasure.

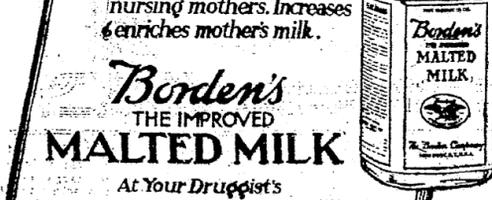

When next you go to California, travel on this great floating hotel! Find out for yourself how good it is.

TWO SLAIN IN HOLD-UP

SHERIFF FRUSTRATES CARNATION BANK ROBBERY.

Leader of Bandits Is Shot to Death as He Fatally Wounds His Pal.

The telephone wires of the bank two weeks ago, intending to hold up the bank alone, but that he had lost his nerve when the bank became crowded and then had decided to get accomplices.

LONE ROBBER HOLDS UP GASOLINE STATION EMPLOYEE

Held up by a lone robber who came into a gasoline filling station at 15th Avenue and East Pine Street on the pretext of making a purchase, M. B. Rhodes, 2305 E. Cherry St. was robbed of $35, his own and the company's money, he told the police last night.

Rhodes was working in the rear of the station, he stated, when the man approached and asked for a can of cup grease, then followed Rhodes into the station when he went to fill the order. As Rhodes opened the cash register to give his customer change, he was ordered to step away from the cash till and keep his hands down at his sides, whereupon the bandit rifled the register and later searched his pockets, taking all but a small amount in pennies and nickels. The station employe then was forced to stand in front of the filling station while the hold-up man walked east on Pine Street at the same time pointing his revolver at Rhodes through the back of his coat.

FRIEND OF HOLD-UP SUSPECTS ARRESTED IN PAWNSHOP

Arrested yesterday afternoon by city detectives while trying to pawn a watch, a man who gave his name as John T. Sullivan, 41 years old, was held today for investigation. The arrest was made at Second Avenue South and Washington Street.

According to police, Sullivan is a close friend of Joe C. Neal, former patrolman, and Ed Faskick, who, with their wives, are charged with the robbery of $22,000 from Bon Marche employes last Friday. He has been unable to give a satisfactory account of his whereabouts at the time of the robbery, police said, and was to be questioned by Detective Capt. Charles Tennant and Deputy Prosecutor Bert C. Ross, who has charge of the case against the four persons arrested.

Neal was released yesterday noon on $7,500 bail, posted by his attorney, John J. Sullivan. Later, John Dore, attorney for the Faskicks, appeared with $7,500 bail for Faskick and $5,000 bail for the two women. They also were released.

Woman Is Heroine of Hold-Up Bank Employe in Line of Fire

Miss Isadore Hall Calmly Performs Her Duties for Four Hours While Awaiting Bandits' Arrival.

To carry on the routine duties of a bank, accepting deposits, cashing checks, smiling pleasantly, even exchanging occasional jokes with the customers, for four hours while she was waiting to be held up by grim bank bandits. Then to stand without flinching in the midst of flying bullets while a desperate robber battled with deputy sheriffs. Such is the experience of Miss Isadore Hall, vice president of the Snoqualmie Valley Bank at Carnation, who stood at her post yesterday while Sheriff Matt Starwich and his deputies lay in wait to frustrate a bold daylight robbery which resulted in the death of the leader of the bandit gang and his "pal". To this slight, dark-haired woman banker there was only one thing to do and that was to stand at her post and do what she could to safeguard the interests of the bank's depositors.

Thrilling Announcement. "Why, it was nothing," she disclaimed modestly. "I felt perfectly safe with the sheriff and his deputies in the back room. It was rather thrilling, though, when Sheriff Starwich walked into the bank in the morning and announced that we were going to be held up."

While Miss Hall refuses to see any heroism in her part in the bank robbery, the citizens of the little valley town of Carnation are not so hesitant. Yesterday afternoon they clustered in groups of two or three in front of the bank, examining the bullet-shattered windows, peering curiously inside and recounting the tale of the hold-up as they had pieced it together.

To them Miss Hall is the heroine of the day. Her bravery in action, and ever greater her courage in working calmly for four hours while she waited for the bank robbers, is something which will furnish the valley with a thrill for many days to come.

Carried Out Her Part. It was shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning when Sheriff Starwich entered with his deputies and announced the expected hold-up to Miss Hall and Miss Ethel Bagwell, the cashier, who are in charge of the bank.

In Line of Fire. A few minutes after 2 o'clock Miss Hall looked in the rear room and noticed the expected hold-up. She remarked that the expected visitors were a little late, and returned again to her post. A short time later two men walked in the door. One of them approached the receiving window behind which Miss Hall stood and, instead of taking out his bank book, thrust a pistol at her. Obediently she put up her hands.
