

Mountains to Sound Greenway Trust

Forests and Fins

Salmon Fingers

There are six species of Pacific Northwest salmon, including the very special kokanee salmon that is native to Lake Sammamish in King County. To remember the names of the salmon, trace your hand and write their names next to each of your fingers. Write "kokanee" or "little red fish" on your palm to remember that this salmon spends its whole life in a freshwater system. Be sure to watch our video that explains the elements of a healthy salmon stream and how to make this model: Forests and Fins: Introduction.

Optional: Look up what these salmon look like in their spawning adult phase and draw your favorite one!

Materials:

- Paper
- Markers or crayons

